

Wild Wanderers

A FAMILY BUSINESS

The Six-Month Build. August to January.

Month by month: the targets, the skills Gabe builds, what SOBO builds, and how we know each month worked. The companion to the business plan.

GABE BREWER · COACHED BY REMI SOBOMEHIN, SOBO CONSULTING · V1

Three builds, running at the same time.

We're building an owner-operator. That takes three parallel builds: the skills in Gabe, the tool he runs the business on, and the weekly rhythm that connects them. This document is the map. The app scorecard is where the truth lives week to week.

The weekly operating system

- Sunday, 30 min: Gabe designs the week. Sessions, asks, admin, family. On the calendar before Monday.
- Monday 2pm, standing: coaching with Remi. Wins first, scorecard review, one focus for the week. One.
- Daily: run the operation. Program mornings, clients afternoons, done by dinner.
- Monthly: family business meeting with Sarah, books open. Plus a monthly close where the numbers get faced.

The scorecard (reviewed every Monday)

- Leads in, conversations had, asks made, closes. The sales pipeline in four numbers.
- Cohort spots filled, out of 10. Committed clients, against 7+.
- Revenue month-to-date against the bridge: $8k today, $20k the target.
- Sessions delivered, and any client or family at risk.

Rule: if it's not on the scorecard, it didn't happen. The scorecard lives in the Wild Wanderers app, business side, built in month one.

The reading list, in order

- Month 1: The E-Myth Revisited (Gerber). The technician-to-owner shift. This is the thesis of the whole engagement.
- Months 1–2: $100M Offers (Hormozi). Make the offer so clear the price feels obvious.
- Months 2–3: $100M Leads (Hormozi). The pipeline playbook.
- Month 3: Profit First (Michalowicz). Pay yourself on purpose. Set up the accounts exactly as written.

The one skill that decides this

- Selling. Gabe has never had to source and close. Now he does, and nobody can do it for him.
- The drill: five real asks a week, every week, starting month one. An ask means a real person, a real offer, a real price, out loud.
- Every Monday we review the asks: what was said, what came back, what to say next time. Reps build the muscle. The books support the reps.

Months one and two: build the machine, fill September.

M1 August

GABE BUILDS

- Reads E-Myth, starts $100M Offers
- Locks the two offers: boys program, fitness coaching. Prices said without flinching
- First 20 asks made: parents, current clients, referrals, the network
- Confirms LLC, insurance, CPR status

SOBO BUILDS

- Scorecard v1 in the app, two funnels (Families, Clients), bridge tracker
- Pricing fixed: 12-pack to ~$1,650, group held
- Waiver and enrollment packet drafted for professional review
- Gabe seeded in Keystone, four workstreams

FOUNDATION + PIPELINE MACHINE

THE RHYTHM

- Monday 2pm running, weeks 1–4
- Sunday week design becomes habit
- Enrollment officially open for fall
- Sarah reads the business plan, meeting one on the books

Month passes if: 3+ boys enrolled · 20+ asks made · protection items closed or scheduled · scorecard live

M2 September

GABE BUILDS

- Reads $100M Leads
- Runs the consult call script live, reviewed weekly
- Five asks a week, no exceptions
- Launch day: runs the first fall session with whoever is enrolled

SOBO BUILDS

- Enrollment flow live end to end: inquiry, conversation, waiver, payment
- Parent update rhythm in the app (the after-session note)
- Trailhead Library feeding the pipeline weekly

ENROLLMENT PUSH + LAUNCH

THE RHYTHM

- Fall session launches mid-September, 3 mornings a week
- Post-session parent notes go out same day
- First monthly close: face the September numbers

Month passes if: fall session launched · 6+ boys enrolled · 1+ new committed client · 20+ asks made

Straight note: we launch with the boys we have. Six boys on the trail beats zero boys and a full waitlist. The cohort fills to ten while the program runs, because a running program is the best sales tool we own.

Months three and four: fill the cohort, systemize the money.

M3 October

GABE BUILDS

- Reads Profit First, opens the accounts as written: income, profit, owner's pay, tax, opex
- Keeps five asks a week while running the program
- First re-price conversation practice: new clients at the confident rate

SOBO BUILDS

- Profit First views in the app money side
- Client welcome package designed and shipped: the shirt, the letter, the standard
- Assessment system live for client onboarding

OPERATE + SELL + MONEY SYSTEMS

THE RHYTHM

- Monthly close #2, first month with real program revenue
- Family meeting #2: Sarah sees the accounts structure

Month passes if: cohort at 8–10 · committed clients at 5+ · Profit First accounts live · revenue ≥ $14k

M4 November

GABE BUILDS

- The retention rhythm: monthly client check-ins, quarterly assessment reviews, parent touchpoints
- The referral ask, scripted and used: every happy client and parent gets asked for one name
- Forms group two from existing demand and the referral engine

SOBO BUILDS

- Referral tracking in the funnels
- Retention flags on the scorecard: at-risk clients surfaced weekly
- Coach accountability card live: clients see Gabe's week

RETENTION ENGINE + GROUP TWO

THE RHYTHM

- Holiday plan set before Thanksgiving: schedule, billing, communication
- Family meeting #3

Month passes if: cohort full at 10 · committed clients 6–7 · group two formed or scheduled · revenue ≥ $17k

Months five and six: hold through the holidays, launch spring, hit the number.

M5 December

HOLD + SPRING ENROLLMENT

GABE BUILDS

- Holds the client base through the holidays: schedule flexibility without revenue collapse
- Opens spring session enrollment (January–May): re-enrolls fall families first, then fills from the waitlist and pipeline
- Year-end money review with Sarah: taxes, write-offs, what the LLC captured

SOBO BUILDS

- Spring enrollment flow, one click from the fall version
- Year-one tax package prep: clean books export for the accountant

THE RHYTHM

- Fall session closes strong: a final-week moment for the boys and the parents
- Family meeting #4, the year-end one

Month passes if: 80%+ fall families re-enrolled · client base held · revenue ≥ $18k

M6 January

SPRING LAUNCH + THE CHECKPOINT

GABE BUILDS

- Launches the spring session
- Runs the full operation on his own rhythm: Sunday design, Monday scorecard, monthly close, without prompting
- Sets the year-three conversation: second cohort, second coach, Sarah's role

SOBO BUILDS

- The six-month review document: every number, plan versus actual, honest
- Coaching cadence steps down to advisor rhythm if the checkpoint passes

THE RHYTHM

- The checkpoint meeting: this plan on the table, scorecard beside it
- Decide the next six months from evidence

Month passes if: spring launched full or filling · $20k month hit or within reach with a named path · Gabe running his own rhythm

What "markedly different" means in January.

We wrote the definition at the start so month six has a scoreboard instead of a debate. This is it.

RHYTHM, UNPROMPTED

What could break this, named now

- The asks don't happen. Everything downstream starves. This is why asks are on the scorecard weekly and reviewed every Monday.
- Enrollment lags September. The counter is launching with six and selling from a running program.
- The holidays eat November and December revenue. The counter is the holiday plan set before Thanksgiving.
- Gabe's fire dips with the wrong clients. The counter is choosing clients he connects with, and the retention rhythm that keeps the relationships real.

The deal, restated

- Gabe sells, runs the operation, keeps the rhythm, and does the reading.
- Remi coaches weekly, builds the tools, tracks the numbers honestly, and says the hard thing when it needs saying.
- The family meets monthly with the books open.
- In January, we hold this page up to the scoreboard and decide the next six months from evidence.

Kyezen, applied to a business: small improvements, most weeks, compounding. Five asks a week for twenty-six weeks is 130 asks. That's how an empty pipeline becomes a full cohort and a committed client base. The plan is simple. The work is the plan.
